More cabs headed downtown?

Proposed changes could allow more taxis during peak hours

By ROBYN YOUNG
Metro Halifax

taxi districts
» There are 610 licensed cabs in downtown Halifax while other districts, such as Dartmouth and Sackville, have their own specified number of licensed taxis.

Anyone who was downtown late Saturday night during a ferocious downpour knows what a feat it is to get a cab in Halifax on weekend nights.

Deputy Mayor Steve Adams, chairman of the Taxi and Limousine Association, will table an amendment to the city's taxi and limousine regulation bylaw at city council tomorrow night and he hopes it will appease cab drivers who don't want regulations lifted and customers who end up stranded after a night out.

Currently, taxi drivers in HRM are restricted to particular zones.

Adams will ask council tomorrow to leave the district limits the way they are, but lift them during peak hours between 11 p.m. and 3 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights.

"Allow cars from Dartmouth and the county to work downtown," he said. "That would add about 400 more cars."

Nadine Burke, a dispatcher for Bob's and Blue Bell Taxi in Dartmouth, said this would pose a problem for Dartmouth.

If all the Bob's cars head to Halifax during peak hours, Dartmouth customers will be left stranded, she said.

Darrell Downey, president of the Taxi and Limousine Association of Halifax, said lifting regulations would negatively impact Halifax drivers.

"It's like any other business; if there's an influx of people … it takes away from the ones that are already working there," he said.

Escaped prisoner apprehended at Niagara Falls hotel

Jermaine Carvery fled from custody in the parking lot of the VG

By ROBYN YOUNG
Metro Halifax

The manager of a Niagara Falls hotel was shocked when he discovered last Thursday that escaped prisoner Jermaine Carvery was one of his guests.

"It's amazing who was here; I read it on the Internet and thought, 'Whoa! Not the most friendly guy to have as your guest,'" said Paul Kyle, manager of the Best Western Cairn Croft in Niagara Falls.

The 30-year-old dangerous offender who escaped custody in Halifax April 3 was picked up by Toronto police last Thursday around 10:30 p.m. at the Lundy's Lane hotel.

Kyle said he'd been a guest for a couple days and no one on staff knew the man was a problem until police called and told them they were on their way to make an arrest.

« I read it on the Internet and thought, 'Whoa! Not the most friendly guy to have as your guest.' »
Hotel manager Paul Kyle

Sgt. Shawn Dowd with the Niagara Regional Police said Carvery was arrested without incident.

"He was taken to Toronto for outstanding charges in their district," Dowd said.

A woman accompanying him was also arrested at the scene, Dowd said.

On May 24, two masked men and one woman attempted to rob the Chanel boutique on Bloor Street in Toronto. One man was arrested and the other man and woman got away. Police have charged Carvery and his cousin, 18-year-old Jerome Carvery, and 30-year-old Anne Marie Dixon with the attempted heist.

Justice Department spokeswoman Sherri Aikenhead said yesterday Justice Minister Cecil Clarke was relieved to hear the news of Carvery's arrest.

"He was very pleased to see him back in custody," Aikenhead said.

The department has taken some heat over the last two months after Carvery eluded prison guards in the parking lot of Victoria General hospital while on a transfer for minor day surgery.

He was on remand at the Central Nova Scotia Correctional Facility in Burnside, facing a number of robbery related charges including attempted murder.

Cab drivers to ask for hike in fare

City help sought as gas prices soar

By ROBYN YOUNG
Metro Halifax

Taxi drivers in HRM will request a fare increase at council tomorrow night, saying it's necessary to keep them afloat while gas prices continue to soar.

"You can only bite the bullet for so long," said Halifax Taxi and Limousine Association President Darrell Downey.

Cab fares in metro start at $3 and Downey said from there it's about $1.50 a kilometre after that.

He said there are two possible routes council could take on the issue: A price hike or a fuel surcharge added to fares.

With a fuel surcharge, he said, the price would fluctuate according to the market.

Deputy Mayor Steve Adams, chairman of the taxi association, said it would make more sense for the city to commit to an annual taxi fare increase than to follow the market.

"It's extremely dangerous to tie any type of increase to a variable over which you have no control," he said.

He said a gradual increase of maybe 10 or 20 cents a year makes more sense.

But Downey said with gas prices creeping ever closer to $1.40 a litre, taxi drivers need to see some compensation.

"The bills have to be paid, the cars have to be maintained," he said.

When world flour prices were on the rise, bakeries raised prices on baked goods, he said. And it should work the same way for taxi drivers and fuel prices.

Sable Island news falls flat: Activist

Environmentalist says governments not doing enough

By JENNIFER TAPLIN and LINDSAY JONES
Metro Halifax

Inter-government co-operation is great and all, but Mark Butler said he'd rather see action.

The policy director of the Ecology Action Centre was happy to see $4 million for the weather station on Sable Island, but not as thrilled with the announcement the feds will co-operate better with the provinces.

"One would have assumed perhaps that they were already co-operating and (federal Environment Minister John Baird) would announce something of greater substance."

Baird held a news conference in Wolfville on Friday. Sable Island's weather station has enough money for another five years, and $1 million will be spent to designate the island a national wildlife area.

He also unveiled a memorandum of understanding for greater environmental cooperation with the Atlantic provinces.

Environment Minister Mark Parent said the co-ordinated Atlantic approach means it will be easier for the provinces to access federal money for the environment.

"It will mean enhanced protection of the environment and ability to access federal funding," he said Friday following the announcement.

But to the public it feels like a non-announcement, Butler said. He'd rather see the federal government regulate emissions and support a shift to greener energy.

RCMP seek information on home credit card robbery

After a friendly chat and a request to use the bathroom, a pair of thieves pocketed credit cards from a Lawrencetown home.

RCMP are looking for the two suspects and believe they could still be hanging around the HRM.

On Friday, two people knocked on the door of a house on Doherty Drive and asked directions to Lawrencetown Beach. They said they were from Montreal and asked to use the bathroom.

Credit cards were then stolen from the homeowner's purse only to be used at the Irving on Cole Harbour Road that evening.

3 dead after Hwy. 103 crash

By JENNIFER TAPLIN
Metro Halifax

Three people are dead after a head-on crash on Highway 103, two kilometres west of Exit 5 at Tantallon.

Cpl. Joe Taplin of the RCMP wouldn't release the names or ages of the victims last night.

A fourth person, with serious injuries, was rushed to the QEII hospital on a Life Flight helicopter.

"We're investigating that one of the vehicles crossed the centre line onto the path way of the other vehicle," Taplin said.

Both vehicles had two occupants each.

"The RCMP reconstruction analyst is on scene right now," he said, in a phone interview.

The highway was closed down soon after the crash at 5:42 p.m. and Taplin said he expected the highway to remain closed until midnight.

Nearly a year ago, a crash on the same highway near Blockhouse killed five people — four on motorcycles, and a young mother in a car.

Man who fled to B.C. doesn't escape sentence

A Truro man who fled to B.C. for a year to escape his sentencing for assault will spend the next eight months behind bars.

In a decision last week, Nova Scotia Supreme Court Justice Jamie Campbell ruled Gregory Ross Withrow couldn't be trusted with a conditional sentence, despite the fact that he turned himself in willingly in January and hasn't been in trouble since.

"People do stupid things. That is a fact of life," Campbell wrote, but said he couldn't give the 34-year-old another chance at freedom.

On March 26, 2005, Greg Withrow punched a man named Angus Withrow — no relation — and broke his false teeth, then tried to drag him out of the house and punched him repeatedly while he was down.

He pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm, but fled to B.C. before his April 13, 2006 sentencing date.

He returned to Nova Scotia and turned himself in Jan. 2, 2008. While awaiting trial, he held a job and lived by his court-ordered release conditions.

Greg Withrow will serve a year's probation after his jail term. He'll also have to pay Angus Withrow $870 to replace his broken false teeth.

Nova Scotia fifth into Nova Scotia

Clipper crew happy to make stop in home port

By PAUL MCLEOD
Metro Halifax

ROBYN YOUNG/METRO HALIFAX

The Nova Scotia clipper led the way into Halifax Harbour yesterday afternoon at the end of the New York to Halifax leg of the Clipper Round the World Yacht Race 2007-08.

When you're sailing around the world, 4:30 in the morning is as good a time as any for a barbecue.

So as the Nova Scotia and the other boats in the Clipper 07/08 Round the World Yacht Race arrived in Halifax in the wee hours of yesterday, every crew came out to party.

"We're definitely excited to be here. It's our home port, it's our home town. I've been Canadian for the past nine months," laughs crew member Mel King (who actually hails from Bristol, England.)

After spending days going toe-to-toe with rivals Hull and Humber and Qingdao, the crew of the Nova Scotia thought they'd eked out third place. But in the end, they missed out by just over a single nautical mile and finished in fifth. WesternAustralia2011.com finished first.

"We thought we'd got them in the last half an hour so it was gutting (to finish fifth) because we thought we'd snitched third," said Lucy Mendham of Chichester, England.

But the crew was in their usual high spirits as they arrived at the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron. Some nabbed a couple hours sleep before the entire fleet sailed through Halifax Harbour yesterday afternoon. Crew members dressed up as the Nova Scotia's mascot — a giant moose — and waved to crowds.

> « It was gutting (to finish fifth) because we thought we'd snitched third. »
> Nova Scotia crew member Lucy Mendham

From Halifax, it's on to Sydney, then the final leg of the race over to Liverpool, England. That'll be the end of a ten-month-long journey that ranged from the day-to day-grind of living in a confined space, to occasional shocking events like boats hitting whales and a crew member falling overboard.

"It's kind of bittersweet. I'm kind of looking forward to getting back home. I miss my friends, my family," said Dave McPhee of Squamish, B.C.

"It's been a great experience. It's been worth it."

Crew member gets a surprise

Mystery guest turned out to be girlfriend after all

By PAUL MCLEOD

PAUL MCLEOD/METRO HALIFAX

Terry Kemp meets up with his surprise guest — his girlfriend, Debs, who was wearing a wig, after landing in Nova Scotia early yesterday morning.

The arrival in Nova Scotia marked the end of a mystery for crew member Terry Kemp.

His girlfriend Debs had originally planned to fly in from England and meet him in Halifax. But then she cancelled, telling him a mystery friend — someone "he'd be happy to see" — was going to meet him instead.

Terry was wrought with curiosity.

"I was racking my brain going through everyone I know," he said on Wednesday. "I just can't figure it out."

When the Nova Scotia arrived just after 4 a.m. yesterday, Terry was below deck. A crewmate came down and told him someone named Sandy was on the dock waiting for him.

"I said, 'I don't know any Sandys.' So I came up on the pontoon and this young lady approached me with a black wig and I still didn't recognize her," said Terry. "Then when she got closer I realized it was Debs after all."

Terry ran forward and embraced her, beaming all the way.

"I knew it was going to be her!" yelled crewmate Lucy Mendham.

Debs laughed when she heard her trick went off so successfully.

"Well you've got to keep a guy on his toes, haven't you?" she said. "That's my motto."

Charges laid in home invasion

RCMP have charged six people with murder in the death of Ivan Rorison, 70, during a home invasion in Inverness last week.

John Travis MacKinnon, 18; Brandy Johnena Timmons, 18; Kyle Travis Timmons, 19, all of Inverness, are charged with first-degree murder and break and enter. Richard James Benson, 24, of Waycobah, is facing the same charges.

Two youths, 14-year-olds from Inverness and Waycobah, are also facing those charges.

All six will appear in Port Hawkesbury provincial court today.

Meanwhile, a 17-year-old male, of no fixed address, is also facing charges of assault, break, enter and theft and resisting arrest.

According to police, Rorison was attacked in his Inverness, Central Avenue home in the early morning hours of Sunday by four or five males who broke in. The culprits made off with cash and liquor. Although badly beaten, Rorison declined to seek medical attention until the following day. He was admitted to the Inverness Consolidated Memorial Hospital where he later died as a result of internal injuries.

The retired coal miner is survived by two sons, a brother and two sisters.

Man acquitted of harassing meteorologist

Judge not certain e-mail threat was sent from accused

By LINDSAY JONES
Metro Halifax

A judge acquitted Wade Christopher White of threatening and harassing popular TV meteorologist Cindy Day Friday.

Provincial court judge Michael Sherar said he's suspicious, but not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the e-mail address, from which a threatening letter was sent to the Day at CTV last October, belonged to White.

The e-mail was sent from WadeWhiteDay@hotmail.com and was signed "love always, Wade," the court heard.

A computer forensics police officer testified the origin of the e-mail is inconclusive.

The e-mail began with "How I long to feel your embrace. I've missed the time we shared together, the hot sex, the vacation time we spent together," the court heard.

Then it turned violent, with the author accusing Day of cheating on him with her husband. Day is not married.

"If I see you with him again I am going to kill him right in front of you. I will make sure you suffer, but not like I will make him suffer," the message said.

The writer threatened to kill her on live television, then take his own life.

Leading up to the threatening e-mail, Day had also received a decorative crystal piano, two love poems, a collage of photos of her surrounded by black roses and greeting cards with dimes taped inside. White, who was being held at the East Coast Forensic Hospital, became a free man Friday. Sherar ordered White to have no communication with Day for a year. CTV news director Jay Witherbee said he's been worried about Day since the incidents and hopes she feels safer.

Students tested too much: Official

Alexis Allen voted new president of teachers union

By LINDSAY JONES
Metro Halifax

Halifax students are being given too many standardized tests, which the new president of the Nova Scotia Teachers Union hopes to do something about.

"It's taking a lot of time in the classroom. It's costly as well," said Alexis Allen, who was elected the 42nd president last week.

The province tests students' literacy skills in Grades 3, 6 and 9, and math skills in Grade 3.

The Halifax regional school board tests literacy skills in Grades 2, 4 and 8. The board also assesses students' math skills in Grades 2, 5 and 9.

While Allen says testing is important, she believes Halifax schools are doing too much.

The Lockview High School social studies teacher, who has 30 years' experience, was elected Thursday night by members from public schools and community college campuses throughout the province.

The union and the Education Department are negotiating a new teachers' provincial agreement. The current one expires at the end of July.

The union is also negotiating a new contract for teachers with the Nova Scotia Community College. The current contract expires at the end of August.

Allen said working conditions, particularly the daily pace and lack of prep time, are one of the main issues.

She begins her two-year term Aug. 1.

Outgoing president Mary-Lou Donnelly will become principal of LeMarchant-St. Thomas School in south-end Halifax this September.

Mystery surrounds missing bras

Undergarments used to celebrate landmarks

TATAMAGOUCHE — A group of Tatamagouche women has been exposed as the victims of a dubious crime. Or, perhaps, a massive coverup.

About 50 of their bras, used to celebrate landmark occasions and fundraise for breast cancer, have been stolen and public support is being sought to help bust the perpetrator.

For several years the bras have been used to dress up the homes of women in the community on their 50th birthdays. The undergarments have been borrowed by other organizations that use them as decorations for various breast cancer fundraisers.

Sara Bonnyman was the first woman in the village to have her 50th birthday exposed for everyone to see on Christmas Eve four years ago, a gift from her friends who collected them from a used clothing store.

"I'm just devastated that someone would take them," Bonnyman said.

Anyone who knows the whereabouts of the wayward undergarments can reach her at 657-3215.

Image disconnect?

New poll finds surprising ideals on immigration

dual citizenship supported

» The poll also sought opinions on the concept of dual citizenship. Nanos found the majority supports it — 51.3 per cent overall and 54.2 per cent in Ontario — surprising, but also a reflection of modern Canada.

Canadians' vision of themselves as hospitable to people fleeing persecution elsewhere doesn't entirely hold up, a poll for a prestigious think-tank says.

While Canadians champion the idea of allowing skilled workers or separated family members into the country, they are less enthusiastic about refugees, concludes the poll by Nanos Research in for the June issue of Policy Options magazine, published by the Montreal-based Institute for Research on Public Policy.

"What it's telling us is there's a disconnect between our self-image of welcoming immigrants and how we actually act," said Nik Nanos, president of the polling firm. "We think we have open arms for people from places that are very dangerous, but practicality kicks in when they get here."

The poll asked people whether three factors should be considered important when selecting immigrants. Across Canada, 68.2 per cent chose job skills, 58.8 per cent said family reunification and only 40.1 per cent picked refugee status.

A man who said he was tired of life went on a stabbing rampage yesterday in a crowded Tokyo shopping street, killing seven people and wounding a dozen others.

The man drove a rental truck into a crowd of pedestrians at lunchtime and then walked down the street knifing passers-by in Akihabara district, known for its discount electronics and maid cafes.

"I came to Akihabara to kill people," Kyodo news agency quoted the attacker as telling police. "I am tired of the world. Anyone was OK. I came alone."

A Tokyo police spokesman said at least seven people had been killed and 12 wounded.

"The man jumped on top of a man he had hit with his vehicle and stabbed him with a knife many times," Kyodo quoted a 19-year-old witness as saying. "Walking toward Akihabara Station, he slashed nearby people at random."

The dead were six men aged 19 to 74 and a 21-year-old woman, the news agency said. The police said a man had been arrested, and television stations showed a slight, blood-splattered 25-year-old being herded into a police car.

Tremor injures 125, dozens of homes damaged

An earthquake struck southern Greece yesterday, killing two villagers, injuring 125 people and damaging dozens of homes, authorities said.

Panicked residents ran into the streets and some jumped from balconies when the quake, measuring 6.5 on the Richter scale, struck at 3:25 p.m. local time, 54 km south of the western port city of Patras.

The village of Kato Achaia, near the epicentre, appeared to be hardest hit by the tremor, which was felt as far away as Italy.

Group of Eight energy ministers yesterday looked inward for solutions to oil's unrelenting rally, touting the need for efficiency rather than piling pressure on a resistant OPEC to pump more crude.

But the Group of Eight nations — plus non-G8 China, India and South Korea — could agree on little more than expressing "serious concerns" over oil prices.

Amid a growing acknowledgement they would have to find ways of tempering demand rather than counting on producers to pump ever more oil, they focused on technology, conservation and diversification.

The group also called on oil producers to boost investment to ensure steady supplies, but did not ask them to pump more crude today, despite growing public anger over climbing fuel prices.

Celtics barely hang on

Lakers almost come back from 24-point deficit

CELTICS 108 LAKERS 102

In what had been a blowout with under eight minutes remaining, the Boston Celtics denied the Los Angeles Lakers one of the most incredible comebacks in playoff history, holding on for a 108-102 win last night in Game 2 of the NBA Finals.

Paul Pierce showed little effects of a knee injury, scoring 28 points, including hitting two big free throws in the final minute for the Celtics, who nearly blew a 24-point lead in the fourth, but moved to 12-1 at home in the playoffs and are halfway to their first championship since 1986.

Pierce, who was carried off the court with a sprained right knee in the third quarter of Thursday's opener before coming back to lead the Celtics to a 98-88 win, shot 9-of-16 from the field and had eight assists.

ELSA/GETTY IMAGES

Boston Celtics forward Leon Powe, centre, scored 21 points in only 15 minutes of play to help lead Boston to a 108-102 win over the Los Angeles Lakers last night.

Leon Powe led a spirited effort from Boston's bench with a playoff career-best 21 points. Powe, who came into the game averaging 4.6 points in the playoffs, went 6-of-7 from the floor and 9-of-13 at the foul line.

Kevin Garnett totaled 17 points and 14 rebounds in the win, while Ray Allen had 17 points and Rajon Rondo finished with 16 assists for Boston.

Kobe Bryant had 21 of his 30 points in the second half for the Lakers, who also got 17 points and 10 rebounds from Pau Gasol. Vladimir Radmanovic had 13 points and 10 boards.

Game 3 is tomorrow at the Staples Center, where the Lakers have dominated in the postseason. The Lakers have won 14 straight home games, including eight in a row in the playoffs.

Garnett's jumper provided Boston with its largest lead at 95-71 with 7:55 remaining, but the Lakers rallied by using a 31-9 run.

Bryant's two free throws cut the deficit to 104-102 with 38.4 seconds left, but Pierce drove to the lane and was fouled by Derek Fisher. Two foul shots later it was 106-102 with 22.8 seconds to go.

Pierce then blocked a three-point try from Sasha Vujacic, and James Posey canned two more at the foul line with 12.6 seconds left.

Poland undone by a native son

Polish-born Podolski scores twice for Germany

EURO2008

Euro 2008 favourites Germany made a winning start with a 2-0 victory over Poland in Klagenfurt yesterday, but there was trouble in the Austrian city as 140 mainly German fans were detained by police.

Germany's win sent them to the top of Group B after Croatia had earlier ground out a 1-0 victory over Austria who, like fellow co-hosts Switzerland the day before, started the championship with a narrow defeat.

Widely seen as the weakest teams in their respective groups, Austria and Switzerland risk an early exit from a tournament already struggling to fire the imagination of the home fans.

On the pitch things could not have gone better for Germany. Their Polish-born forward Lukas Podolski scored both goals to secure their first victory at a European Championship since they won the final of Euro 96 at Wembley.

Podolski steered the ball into an empty net midway through the first half from a pass by Miroslav Klose, another Polish-born striker, and volleyed the second in the 72nd minute.

Victory for Germany over Croatia in Thursday's game would make a place in the last eight a formality.

Croatia were much less impressive when they took three points from the day's opening game, which was decided by a fourth minute penalty slotted home by Luka Modric.

Nadal still King of Clay

Wins fourth straight French Open title

In the end Roger Federer, like the incredulous crowd at Roland Garros, had no choice but to salute Rafael Nadal.

The irrepressible Spaniard put a shell-shocked Federer firmly in his place with a brutal 6-1, 6-3, 6-0 demolition to complete the most lopsided French Open men's final victory for 31 years.

Nadal protected his aura of invincibility in devastating style to take his place alongside Bjorn Borg as the only men to have won four successive French Open titles.

Nadal

After the one hour 48-minute destruction, even Nadal was embarrassed to celebrate his triumph and told Federer during the presentation ceremony: "I'm sorry for that final but you played well. I want to thank (you) for (your) attitude on the court."

A dejected Federer added: "I would have hoped to do better than four games but Rafael is very, very strong." REUTERS

P.E.I. takes Duffy fifth

Top Nova Scotian taken projects to be a big-time scorer

By MATTHEW WUEST
Metro Halifax

STEVE WADDEN/CAPE BRETON POST.

Lower Sackville's Ben Duffy, centre, was the top Nova Scotian picked in Saturday's QMJHL draft in Sydney. Duffy was selected fifth overall by the P.E.I. Rocket.

P.E.I. Rocket management sees a bright future for Lower Sackville's Ben Duffy — and that future is expected to extend well beyond the years he'll spend in Charlottetown.

Duffy was the top Nova Scotian picked in Saturday's QMJHL draft at Centre 200 in Sydney, going fifth overall to the Rocket and taking a major step forward in his young career.

Savard compared Duffy to Hockey Hall of Famer Pat LaFontaine.

"I see him as a first-rounder in the NHL a couple of years from now," Savard raved. "He's a pro player, absolutely."

The 16-year-old centre has spent the past two seasons ripping apart the Nova Scotia Major Midget Hockey League, piling up 67 goals among 146 points in just 85 games.

He was one of 21 Nova Scotians selected on Saturday.

"It's great," Duffy said, moments after draping a Rocket jersey over his head. "The goal of mine was just to get drafted, but being the first Nova Scotian picked is unbelievable."

P.E.I. is a young team, and Savard is looking for Duffy to join forces with former first-round picks Brandon MacLean of Bedford and Benjamin Cassavant to help the Rocket contend. He said Duffy should earn a regular shift right away.

"Everywhere he's been he's been a No. 1 scorer and by the time he's 18, he'll be a top scorer in the Q," Savard said. "He's a point-scoring machine and he's going to help us."

Glace Bay forward Logan Shaw went 12th overall to his hometown Cape Breton Screaming Eagles, followed by a run of four consecutive picks from the Subways.

Dartmouth forward Bradley MacDonald went to Gatineau at No. 30; twin brothers Michael and Andrew Roski of Halifax went 36th and 38th to the Montreal Juniors and Moncton Wildcats; and Dartmouth's Matthew Fortune went 48th to Gatineau.

MacDonald, a speedster who busted out with a monster second half, watched some of the QMJHL semifinals between the Olympiques and Halifax Mooseheads at the Metro Centre and came away extremely impressed.

"They're one of the teams I wanted to get picked by," the 5-foot-9, 174-pound forward said. "They won the championship this year so they're obviously a good organization."

Central Scouting had MacDonald ranked 20th overall, two picks away from the first round. He slipped, and Gatineau couldn't have been happier, according to chief scout Renaud Lemay.

"We were looking at him in the first round and we were surprised he was still there — there was no hesitation," Lemay said. "He's a good skater and we think he's going to score goals."

Dream come true for hometown kid

Cape Breton stays close to home with 12th pick

By MATTHEW WUEST
Metro Halifax

STEVE WADDEN/CAPE BRETON POST

The Cape Breton Screaming Eagles selected local boy Logan Shaw with its first round draft pick.

Glace Bay's Logan Shaw couldn't have dreamed of a better day at the QMJHL draft — the hometown kid went to the hometown team in front of the hometown crowd.

The Cape Breton Screaming Eagles grabbed the 6-foot-2, 173-pound forward with their first pick, 12th overall, in Saturday's draft at Centre 200 in Sydney, taking Shaw well before Central Scouting's projection of 31st overall.

"My heart was beating so fast … it was a great honour," Shaw said. "I wasn't expecting to go this high."

Shaw is tall and lanky, still wears braces, and was one of the youngest picks in the first round. He won't turn 16 until October, a month into the 2008-09 season.

The Screaming Eagles consider him a can't-miss pick.

"He's a real hard worker, as we like to have, and he can play both sides of the ice," Screaming Eagles head scout Yanick Lemay said. "He might be a more of a defensive player to start, but he's got a job on the second line in the near future."

The Screaming Eagles had former captain James Sheppard of Lower Sackville on hand to announce the pick. They also held a moment of silence for former defenceman Luc Bourdon, who died two weeks ago in a motorcycle crash.

The crowd jeered the Montreal Junior and former Screaming Eagles head coach and general manager Pascal Vincent, who left Sydney on May 21 with a year left on his contract.

Cape Breton received what amounted to a third-round pick as compensation in an agreement with Montreal.

The Screaming Eagles also announced Howie Centre native Chris Culligan as their captain for 2008-09.

A quiet draft day for Herd

Patenaude has high hopes for team's picks

By MATTHEW WUEST
Metro Halifax

Marcel Patenaude didn't do much wheeling. He didn't do much dealing. He just sat at the Halifax Mooseheads' draft table and waited for his selections, at one point joking to followers "not to fall asleep" — he'd be making a pick soon.

At the end of the QMJHL draft in Sydney, the veteran general manager had a smile on his face and the belief that at least five of his picks could step into his young lineup in August.

"It's hard for me to pinpoint any single one — I'm seriously excited about all of them," Patenaude said. "That's the nice thing about next season. They all have a chance to come in, showcase themselves, and make our team."

The Mooseheads didn't have a first-rounder and ended up making nine selections, kicking it off by picking forwards Gabriel Desjardins (24th overall) and Alex Lemieux (40th).

Both are fast and gritty — Desjardins more of a scorer, Lemieux more of a hitter — and Patenaude coveted those attributes, perhaps in light of this year's early playoff exit.

The 5-foot-10, 187-pound Desjardins was affable and confident around the Mooseheads' draft table, shaking hands as he addressed reporters and met the team's staff.

"I was very surprised they picked me because they had not talked to me at any time (before the draft)," said Desjardins, who had 22 points in 44 games for Montreal's midget AAA team.

"I like Halifax," he added. "It's a good team."

Lemieux, the younger brother of Shawinigan Cataractes defenceman Gabriel, is a product of the Quebec midget team Charles-Lemoyne and doesn't speak any English. But the Mooseheads did the talking for him, comparing Lemieux to former Metro Centre favourite Frederik Cabana.

"He reminds us of Freddy — the style, the way he skates, the way he behaves himself," Patenaude said. "He's very intense, his skating is phenomenal. We like what we see."

With their only other top-five pick, the Mooseheads selected 6-foot-2, 190-pound forward Jessyko Bernard in the fourth round (69th overall) from Cushing Academy prep school.

The skilled Moncton native has ditched his plan to go the NCAA route and will play in Halifax next season.

"He's a big, strong guy with good hands," Patenaude said.

The other two players the Mooseheads see stepping in are polar opposite blue-liners. Ryan Matheson, a highly-skilled 5-foot-11 power-play quarterback from Newfoundland, came in the sixth round. Alex MacDonald, a rugged, 6-foot-3 stay-at-homer from Moncton, joined the fold in the seventh.

Only one pick — ninth-round American forward Andrew O'Leary — has not committed to play for the Mooseheads.

The Mooseheads also grabbed a pair of Nova Scotians in Cole Harbour McCain goaltender Kody Blois and South Shore Mustangs defenceman Andrew Morrison.

Despite one of the quietest draft days in recent memory, the team feels the cupboards have been restocked.

"We won't know until later (if the draft was a success) but the comments from my scouts and comments (from other teams) … We're very excited to see them at camp," Patenaude said.

Mooseheads acquire Bahm; deal Corsi, Monast

Team hopes centre can be a big part of young squad

By MATTHEW WUEST
Metro Halifax

The Halifax Mooseheads acquired 19-year-old centre Linden Bahm at Saturday's draft in Sydney in the hopes he'll be a big contributor on a young team in 2008-09.

Bahm, a 6-foot, 188-pounder, came over from the Shawinigan Cataractes for a sixth-round draft pick in 2009. He had nine goals and nine assists in 67 games last season.

Bahm, an Ottawa native, also dished out 98 hits, but struggled on faceoffs, with just a 38.7 per cent success rate.

"He was Shawinigan's third-line centre and in the games we played against him he was very intense, involved," Mooseheads general manager Marcel Patenaude said. "He's the type of player we really like. He has very good hands too and he could put up a lot of points for us, and that's what we need."

Patenaude said it's possible Bahm could evolve into an overager for the Mooseheads in 2009-10.

Bahm

The Mooseheads also traded veterans Guillaume Monast and Peter-James Corsi on Friday to complete December blockbusters for Brad Marchand and David Bouchard.

Monast, a top defenceman, went to the Quebec Remparts and Corsi, a high-scoring forward, to the Drummondville Voltigeurs. Both will be 20-year-olds next season. In return, the Mooseheads recouped some lost draft picks.

Patenaude called the picks "important for the future."

He said he tried to make deals on the draft floor but nothing materialized. Although he wouldn't elaborate, the buzz was that he was after the sixth overall pick to grab blue-liner Garrett Clarke. The Lewiston Mainieacs won those sweepstakes.

There were a handful of trades, but the one of highest profile saw the Quebec Remparts deal star forward Angelo Esposito to his hometown team, the Montreal Junior. Jean-Simon Allard went the other way, along with a handful of draft picks.

The P.E.I. Rocket also acquired veteran goalie Bobby Nadeau.

Here are sketches of the Halifax Mooseheads' picks in Saturday's QMJHL draft, ordered by round and pick and with position, height, weight, team and comments from Mooseheads director of scouting Sylvain Brunelle.

2-24 » Gabriel Desjardins, F, 5-10, 187, Montreal (midget). "Very good skater ... Very determined ... Competes every shift ... Scorer who shoots the puck well."

3-40 » Alex Lemieux, F, 5-10, 172, Charles-Lemoyne (Que. midget). "Similar to Freddy Cabana ... Skates well ... Very intense ... Dedicated ... Not a pure scorer ... Impact body-checker."

4-69 » Jessyko Bernard, F, 6-2, 190, Cushing Academy (U.S. prep). "Good thought process ... He can put the puck in the net ... An offensive player ... Very strong."

6-101 » Ryan Matheson, D, 5-11, 169, Central Ice Pack (Nfld. midget). "One of the best quarterbacks in the draft ... His skating is his best asset."

7-109 » Alex MacDonald, D, 6-3, 182, Moncton (midget). "Very, very big ... He's a stay-at-home defenceman."

8-141 » Kody Blois, G, 5-10, 170, Cole Harbour (midget), 18 GP, 2.71 GAA, 2 SO. "He's got very good technique ... Butterfly style."

9-159 » Andrew O'Leary, F, 6-0, 180, Shattuck St. Mary's (U.S. prep), 54-27-40-67-64. "He has great agility ... He's a big guy ... We think he can score … Offensive player."

11-195 » Andrew Morrison, D, 5-10, 172, South Shore (midget), 30-5-12-17-16. "He's very, very mobile ... A project."

12-213 » William Cloutier, F, 5-10, 172, Seminaire St-Francois (Que. midget), 39-11-9-20-14. "Good skater ... Intense ... A very, very good checker."

Avoiding basic resumé slip-ups

Don't give hiring managers reasons to ditch your application

By JON TATTRIE
for Metro Halifax

When applying for a job, do not list your mother as a reference — even if you put her maiden name, and claim you worked for her in a café, just don't do it. And for heaven's sake, run your spell-checker.

Such mistakes are among the many reasons employers may move a resumé from an "interview" pile to the garbage can, say Tracey MacCharles and Sean McKenna at Focus Recruitment in Dartmouth.

"I've seen resumés that have come to me that are written to another company," says McKenna.

Keep in mind that your application has only 30 seconds to catch the eye of a hiring manager. A top-notch resumé can not only land you an interview, but can also pave the way for a higher salary. A clean, tailor-made document of one or two pages is key, as is aiming well: A few custom-made resumés will hit more targets than dozens machine-gunned into the job market.

Employers are likely to toss out job applications that contain errors.

MacCharles likes to see bullet points and eye-catching numerals used to highlight an applicant's accomplishments. Put your best bullet last, she advises, "Because if you just scan (the application), the last point will catch your eye."

On your employment record, use both months and years to indicate the duration of prior jobs — listing years alone makes it look like you're trying to hide something.

And if you do want to hide a patchy era in your working life, MacCharles suggests using a different strategy. "If you're covering it up, you might want to do a skills resumé rather than listing 20 jobs," she says. Highlight what the job you're applying for requires, and how your skills meet those needs.

Testimonials are good, too, but attribute a quote to a specific person to add weight. "If you have any (testimonials) in whatsoever, you shouldn't be ashamed to drop that name," says McKenna. A cover letter can be a good place to do that.

Some companies use "straining tools" to weed out applicants. "If there are key words that they're looking for that aren't in your resumé, you don't even get past the gatekeeper," says McKenna. Repeat the words used in the job posting.

And supply an active, grown-up e-mail address. McKenna recalls one client who was baffled by the lack of response to her job applications and had never considered that her e-mail user name, "toosexygirl," might have been a factor.

So set up a gmail or eastlink account using only your name. McKenna says Hotmail and Yahoo addresses appear unprofessional, and a lot of employers won't even open applications sent from such accounts.

resumé pointers

- Use 12-point font and keep it consistent.
- Use black ink on white paper.
- Run your spell-checker, then look for errors the software may not have caught, such as mixing up "there" and "their."
- Put your name and details at the top of every page.

Ruling should make firms think about anti-discrimination policies

This is the tale of Ali Tahmoupour, who claimed discrimination cost him his job. He took on the RCMP in a seven-year battle — and won.

Chasing his lifelong dream to become a police officer, the Muslim Canadian man entered the RCMP training academy in Regina. He claimed he was discriminated against as a Muslim and Iranian from the start, stating he was ridiculed for wearing a religious pendant and his instructor was verbally abusive, directing significantly more attention to him than to others. He argued conditions for visible minorities made it more difficult to complete the training.

Part way through the training, Tahmoupour received a poor performance evaluation and was given one month to improve. One day before the deadline, two instructors prompted the termination of his training contract. They said he hadn't shown any improvement and would receive another negative evaluation the next day.

WORKPLACE LAW
dan@canadaemploymentlawyer.com

Tahmoupour claimed the evaluations didn't accurately represent his performance, and that discrimination created an environment where he couldn't properly perform. He launched a complaint of discrimination, which went to a hearing at the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal.

The tribunal found instructors had treated Tahmoupour differently and had tried to distinguish him from other cadets based on his Muslim background. While some aspects of Tahmoupour's performance were objectively poor, the tribunal found that, in part, it was due to the environment. Ruling that "there is a serious possibility that had the discrimination not occurred, Mr. Tahmoupour would have successfully completed the training," the tribunal ordered the RCMP to offer him reinstatement to the academy, salary for a two-year period following his termination, the difference between what his RCMP salary would have been and what he would have made in an average job, and damages for pain and suffering. The total award is estimated at over $500,000. Imagine what the damage award would be for an employee who earned, say, $100,000 a year.

This case highlights the broad remedial measures such tribunals can order where discrimination is found. Given that, employers ought to consider introducing zero-tolerance policies on discrimination or harassment and offering a straightforward, reprisal-free, complaints process for their employees.

Halifax history on display at MMA

When it arrived in Halifax, it did so under escort. After all, a loan from the Queen is not something you take lightly.

"I'm sure he has a more official title as the caretaker, but I jokingly referred to him as the cloak's bodyguard," says the Maritime Museum of the Atlantic's Jasmine Marshall.

The boat cloak belonged to General James Wolfe and is now on display at the museum as part of Halifax vs. Louisbourg: The Final Siege.

The garment is one of the highlights of the exhibit, which commemorates the 250th anniversary of the fall of the French fortress, located on the Cape Breton coast. The display runs at the Maritime Museum of the Atlantic through Nov. 2.

Searching for Atlantic vintage

Priestley, Mulligan wine and dine

By DEAN LISK
Metro Halifax

Somehow it happened. A talk about those bawdy Trailer Park Boys turned into a civilized discussion about fine wine.

It occurred during a taping of the first season of Hollywood And Vine, when hosts Terry David Mulligan and Jason Priestley were at the St. Francis Winery in California.

"I made a joke about Nova Scotian wines, and how there were no wineries in Nova Scotia," said Priestley, the former star of Beverly Hills, 90210.

"I said, 'I think there is,'" said Mulligan, who started researching Bluenose vintages.

"Because I made that joke, we felt it was our duty to do our homework and come here," added Priestley.

Terry David Mulligan and Jason Priestley were at the Halifax waterfront on Sunday shooting footage for the new season of their series, Hollywood and Vine.

For the last few days, Mulligan and Priestly have been touring the region taping segments for the new season of their TV show, which airs on Star.

"There are enough characters here that we wanted to come and visit," said Mulligan, driving back to Halifax after a winery visit.

They were going to stop at the Chicken Burger for a quick lunch before heading to the waterfront to shoot more footage.

On Saturday night, the two had a dinner at the top floor of the Delta Barrington, sampling local cuisine and wine — all with a commanding view of the city.

"For us, it was a two hour primer in food and wine," said Mulligan, who also hosts a wine radio show, The Tasting Room.

"That is how you should start every trip."

Mulligan admits he wasn't a wine lover until Priestley got him interested.

Both knew each other from their time in Vancouver; Mulligan as a radio host and MuchMusic personality, and Priestley as an up-and-coming actor.

Priestley — who has shot a few films in Halifax — started collecting wine when he was 21 years old.

"The reality is that Terry is the wine drinker but he has no knowledge of wine," Priestley joked.

"I understand wine and drink it, but certainly not to the excesses he enjoys."

Wine guys

» There will be a MuchMusic reunion of sorts in Halifax. One of the stops Terry David Mulligan will make while shooting Hollywood And Vine is at the newly opened The Carleton – owned by former Much East host Mike Campbell.

The Recording Institute Association of America honoured singer-songwriter Jewel, left, with a plaque recently for her lifetime U.S. album sales of 18 million.

Hot style for cooling down

As temperatures rise, chill out with these tips

So! There's a heat wave upon us and you're looking around your space thinking; 'Blimey; 'What do I do to lighten up, and how can I make my world that little bit fresher? Without, ahem, breaking the bank?'

Well, panic not — we're here to help. Stick with us, kids, and we'll soon have you refreshed, invigorated ... and a whole load cooler. Literally and visually.

First things first. It's time to pare back. Tear down those thick winter curtains and replace them with lighter voiles that'll visually freshen and allow summer breezes to float through your home. And, while you're at it, peel back those chunky wool throws, knobbly cushions and heavy bed dressings and seasonally adjust your environment. As replacements, opt for cooler cotton or silk Pashmina style throws and lightweight foam-filled cushions instead of feather — each far more comfortable during hotter climes.

If you really want to effect full seasonal adjustment then perhaps it's time to paint out the very warming wintry colours you chose at the end of last summer!

COLIN & JUSTIN'S INTERIOR DIVINE

However, if you don't want to completely redecorate, then by simply adding an accent wall in a cool shade like Dulux 'Big Chill' (it's baby blue!) or Dulux 'Early Frost' (a soft yet crisp green note) you can achieve surprisingly cooling results. Either of these selections would provide the perfect foil to balance existing mocha, caramel or even chocolate shades.

Colin and Justin's Top Five Cool Downs:

ONE: Invest in a sexy fan; 'The Hampton Bay Retro', a gorgeous oscillating design finished in chrome, costs just $49.95. Available from Home Depot it can be used on your desk top or can be adjusted to become a tall floor standing model.

TWO: Cast off those heavy layers and lighten up your soft furnishings with lightweight summer alternatives.

THREE: Accent walls rule! One or two paler walls will — visually — cool things down as the mercury ascends. Try light reflective paints by Rona, The Canadian How To People to further open up space.

FOUR: Mirror and mirrored furnishings will bounce light and brighten up even the dullest interior. Try tanyas.ca for a great choice.

FIVE: Invest in a cute wee water feature! You'd be amazed at the cooling power of a trickling indoor fountain. Click onto tropicsnorthstudios.com for streams of inspiration.

Finally, set your new scheme to a little music! And take it from us — nothing (of an aural nature!) cools more than Serve Chilled '08 by Hed Kandi.

Featuring high on our 'at home' soundtrack, it's a refreshingly relaxing vibe that'll help you shift down a few gears as the temperatures rise!

Colin & Justin's The Home Show, airs Tuesdays at 11 p.m. and Saturdays at 4 p.m. ET on HGTV. www.hgtv.ca

In Brief

» BOX OFFICE Moviegoers across North America were in a fighting mood during the weekend, cheering the family cartoon Kung Fu Panda to the top spot at a box office packed with hits, earning an estimated $60 million during its first three days, distributor Paramount Pictures said yesterday. But it was not a complete knockout. Columbia Pictures' Adam Sandler comedy You Don't Mess With The Zohan, about an Israeli commando-turned-New York hairdresser, opened at No. 2 with $40 million, Reuters reports.

» DIVORCE Actress Anne Heche must give her ex-husband $275,000 plus regular child-support payments for the care of their son, a judge has ruled BBC News Online reports.

NYPD's Smits now Dexter attorney

TELEVISION Former NYPD Blue star Jimmy Smits has joined the cast of Showtime's drama series Dexter, which begins its third season in the fall.

Smits will portray Miguel Prado, an ambitious, charismatic assistant district attorney who comes from one of Miami's most politically powerful and beloved families. Dexter (Michael C. Hall), a blood-spatter expert for the Miami Police Department who moonlights as a serial killer, will join forces with Prado in the pursuit of a murderer who affects both of their lives directly.

Smits will be featured in 10 of the third season's 12 episodes. He most recently starred in the short-lived CBS drama Cane. REUTERS

Nashville Star

It's about time this show got a broadcast network berth after all those years on cable. Season six brings lots more changes to the country music competition: Duos and groups are now allowed, auditions are open to those 16 and up, and Billy Ray Cyrus takes over as host. The season premiere showcases the good, the bad and the ugly from the audition rounds — always fun. 10 PM on NBC

House

Hey, it's Big Love! And Ridiculously Old Fraud! House (Hugh Laurie) eventually winnowed down his field of new fellows to three, but this episode takes us back to the beginning of the elimination game. Thirty wannabes are put to work on the case of a military pilot (Essence Atkins) whose illness may disqualify her from astronaut training. And House is seeing his ex-fellows (Jennifer Morrison, Omar Epps, Jesse Spencer) in places where they shouldn't be. 10 PM on CIHF, FOX

Mantracker

Don't even try to escape; you're going to lose. Horse-riding tracker Terry Grant returns for another season to hunt down more people who think they are smarter than he is. The tracking is a little more difficult since the contestants have studied previous shows and have picked up a few ways to elude Grant. But considering he's accompanied by a local who knows the terrain inside and out, they really don't have much of a chance. 10 PM on OLN

Blood Ties

"I thought he was a ghost." "He is." "Then why is he alive?" That's the mystery Vicki (Christina Cox) has to solve when the spirit of a former co-worker (guest star Steve Bacic) that only she can see hires her to find out where his body is. The same body that everyone sees walking and talking around the precinct. Henry (Kyle Schmid) thinks the ghost has a bad motive, while Mike (Dylan Neal) thinks the living version has gone to the Dark Side. 11 PM on SPACE

Shania 'healing her broken heart'

Shania Twain opened up about her split from husband of 14 years, producer Robert "Mutt" Lange on her website recently, usmagazine.com reports.

"As I am sure you have seen or heard; I am going through a rough time personally in my life," the country singer wrote.

"I wanted you all to know that I could not be getting through this without you.

"Your letters, emails and words of encouragement give me strength. Your overwhelming support reminds me to smile, no matter how deep the pain and to always be grateful for all the beautiful blessings in my life. I have so much to say but I know the best way for me to speak is through my music.

"This is my therapy, my passion, and my love. I look forward to sharing it with all of you as I begin this new journey.

"I need some time to heal this broken heart but make no mistake; I will be back and hopefully stronger than ever."

Twain and Lange announced their split on May 15. They have a son, Eja D'Angelo, 6. Twain's secretary and house manager disputed people.com's report that she broke up the Timmins, Ont. native's marriage. Metro News Services

Hayden kisses and tells

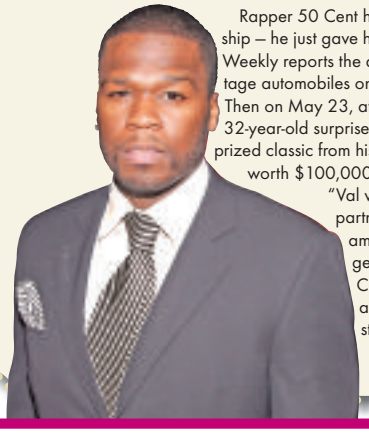

Hayden Panettiere won't talk about dating her Heroes co-star Milo Ventimiglia, but she recently revealed that she has no problem kissing other girls, according to tmz.com.

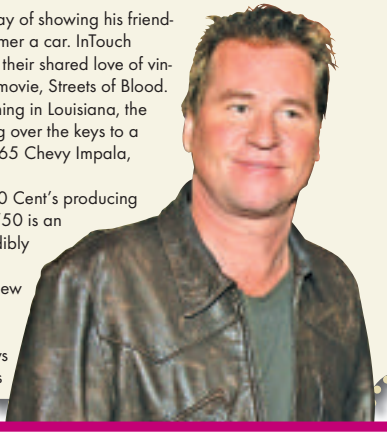

The 18-year old actress told the UK edition of Glamour magazine about her experimental ways.

"It's great to be single. It's great to have boyfriends. Or girlfriends. There are occasions when you kiss your best friend growing up, having fun and goofing about. Like perfecting your technique!"

Fiddy doesn't nickel and dime

Rapper 50 Cent has an extravagant way of showing his friendship – he just gave his new co-star Val Kilmer a car. InTouch Weekly reports the duo first bonded over their shared love of vintage automobiles on the set of their new movie, Streets of Blood. Then on May 23, after just a week of filming in Louisiana, the 32-year-old surprised Val, 48, by handing over the keys to a prized classic from his personal fleet: a 1965 Chevy Impala, worth $100,000.

"Val was shocked," says 50 Cent's producing partner, Randall Emmett. "50 is an amazing guy and incredibly generous." Val and 50 Cent play cops in the new action flick, which also stars Sharon Stone.

Swayze back to work

Patrick Swayze, who was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer in March, is heading back to work, usmagazine.com reports. A&E has ordered 13 episodes of his new series The Beast, according to the Hollywood Reporter. Swayze plays an unorthodox FBI veteran who trains a new partner while being pursued by a secret Internal Affairs team.

A&E execs told the Reporter that the actor's doctors have cleared him to resume work.
